The Axe

By Frances Randolph

THE patriarch Noah is still building his ark, inviting all pious souls like himself to be saved in it—and threatening fire and brimstone for the others. From a report in one of the Washington newspapers we learn that Mr. Noah W. Cooper has invoked a law passed in the year 1805 and had all places of business and amusement closed on Sunday in Nashville, Tenn. Please, Mr. Cooper, why must a Jew close his second-hand clothing store because you believe that the Christian Sunday should be universally observed? In this country the Jew has just as much right to insist that his feast days become national holidays as for the Christian to force his Sunday on the Jew.

WHEN a religious belief becomes so weak that it must be enforced by legislation it ceases to have any great value. In just this way has the sentiment against the study of evolution become so overwhelmed by popular opinion, that it has been compelled to resort to legislation in order not to die out entirely. When will the American people, the freest of the earth, recognize the fact that a belief can not be legislated into existence?

A SIMILAR case has been discovered recently in Massachusetts, the "center of American learning, progress and culture." A law passed in the seventeenth century has been invoked to punish a man guilty of blasphemy—a thing entirely divorced from the province of the state. Religion is a matter pertaining to the individual alone. A man's religion or lack of it is no business of his neighbors. The neighbor would do better to begin by casting out the beam of intolerance from his own eye, before he tackles the mote of independence in his brother's.

NEXT week will be one of hectic excitement. From Monday, when Convocation opens the program, to Saturday when the girls' basketball team closes it, this will be a memorable week. Many will be the prayers of thanksgiving for Thursday, appropriately termed "rest-day," when no big event will call the heavy-eyed multitudes from their havens of rest.

WEIRD tales of fraternity initiations, of days that try men's souls, come seeping out from all directions. Is the application of rotten eggs both as interior and exterior decoration, the too-liberal use of paddles, physical torture of the body and humiliation of the soul, necessary to the beginning of a life of brotherly love and mutual support? It seems rather out of accord with the ideals of fraternal life that new members should be welcomed with such barbarous rites.

HAZING has long been out of favor among colleges. Occasional deaths, and more than occasional injuries among freshmen have put hazing under a strict ban in practically all colleges. Fraternities seem not to have been affected by these rules. New members of fraternities get all that the usual freshman is spared. The initiative in the abandonment of this custom must come from the organizations themselves.

FOR the sororities, the worst will soon be over. Non-communications, the climax of three weeks of hit-or-miss invitations, parties, discussions, and prognostications, will soon be upon us. No sorority girl may speak to a freshman during this period. Sorority girls probably would not be able to recognize the freshmen anyway. Three weeks is a very short time in which to be expected to become personally acquainted with a tremendous class of girls, when there has been no contact whatever for a whole semester.

BASKETBALL TEAM IS VICTOR IN TWO OUT OF THREE COURT GAMES

Buff and Blue Courtmen Score Impressive Wins Over West Virginia and Duke On Home Floor—Lose To Catholic University at Brookland

HATCHET QUINT SHOWS MARKED IMPROVEMENT

Wallace, Wheeler and Kendall Star as Axemen Attain Winning Form—West Virginia and Duke Games Are Won By Decisive Margins—Rough Play Marks Contests

BY STARR AND GARDNER

Flashing their best form of the season, the George Washington basketball team annexed two victories out of three starts last week, defeating the West Virginia and Duke University quintets by comfortable margins, and losing to Catholic University. The quint showed a marked improvement in teamwork in these three frays, especially in passing and cutting, while their shooting was well up to standard. The Hatchettes put up their best game on the H Street floor, emerging with the long end of the score in the two tilts played at home, while they were conquered at the Brookland Gym.

Fighting to avenge their defeat at the hands of West Virginia at Morgantown in January, the Crum-Lemon combination literally played the Mountaineers off their feet, securing an impressive 39-16 win. The fracas was pretty rough in spots, numerous fouls being called on both quintets, and football headgear and other impediments would have been more appropriate.

Wallace started the battle off with a rush when, on the first play, he looped in a beautiful long shot, and sent the ball crashing through the netting. He was fouled on this play, and made good on one of the two free tries granted him. Long shots by Banton and Wallace followed in rapid succession, putting the Axemen seven points to the good before the Mountaineers were able to locate the ring.

Ashworth soon broke away from his guard and caged a close shot for West Virginia's first tally. Glenn and Ashworth came through with two-pointers, followed by beautiful shots by Wheeler and Wallace. The Buff and Blue led 20-7 at half time.

The second act was simply a repetition of the first, the Crum-Lemon clan piling up sufficient points to keep the Mountaineers at a respectful distance. It was in this period that the gridiron tactics made their appearance. Allhouse and Wallace bore the burden of the Hatchet offense, caging several pretty shots between them. Wheeler and Wallace hit the rim for two beautiful side-court shots just before the final whistle.

In addition to the clever work of Wallace and Wheeler, the close guarding of Banton and Kendall, and the fast floor work of Allhouse featured the contest.

Duke Game Close

George Washington took the measure of Duke University Friday evening in a hard and bitter struggle replete with flashes of brilliant basketball on the part of both teams. The

PYRAMID HONOR SOCIETY ELECTS 2 NEW MEMBERS

Robert C. Albright and John P. Trimble Honored by Highest Honor Society

The Pyramid Honor Society of George Washington University initiated Robert C. Albright and John P. Trimble into their select group at a special meeting held in the Alumni Room of the Law School Monday night. These men were elected by the Society at their Fall elections held a short while ago, the results of which have just been made public.

Membership in the Pyramid Society is limited to ten men annually who have maintained excellent scholarship and distinguished themselves in the advancement of student activities throughout three years of attendance at the University. Only the leaders in recognized branches of student activities are elected.

Robert C. Albright will be graduated next Monday with the Midwinter Graduating Class. He has been reporter, news editor, associate editor, and Managing Editor of the University Hatchet. He is also a member of Pi Delta Epsilon national honorary journalistic fraternity, the G. W. U. Press Club, and Sigma Nu Fraternity.

John P. Trimble has been one of the outstanding members of the George Washington University debating team for several years. He was a member of the team that defeated Princeton University last season, and was a member of the team which won a brilliant victory over Oxford University in November.

El Circulo Espanol held a business meeting Thursday evening, February 11. Plans were made for the activities of the new semester, the first of which will be a card party to be given Wednesday evening, March 10.

GYM TO BE TRANSFORMED FOR EVENING OF MUSIC

Carmela Ponselle to Feature Program—Architecture Students to Construct Set

Preparations for the "Evening of Music at Mount Vernon," to be held at the George Washington University gymnasium on the evening of February 22nd, to commemorate the 194th birthday of George Washington, are progressing rapidly. Students of the Architectural Department are busy designing the set which will be a replica of the music room at Mount Vernon.

Washington music lovers are looking forward with pleasure to hearing Carmela Ponselle, of the Metropolitan Opera Company, who will be the guest star of the evening. In keeping with the occasion, her program will be one of 18th century music. Miss Ponselle's recent debut in opera in New York was a distinct triumph.

Other Features Splendid

Other features on the program will be the National String Quartet, which will give selections, and the Tuesday Evening Music Club, which will sing old glees, including George Washington's favorite of the works of Francis Hopkinson.

This unusual entertainment, which is being given by the Board of Lady Managers for the benefit of the George Washington University Hospital, promises to be an outstanding success, and official and social Washington will turn out for it en masse. Many prominent Washingtonians already have secured boxes, and the list of distinguished patronesses is being added to daily.

Tickets for the performance may be had at the University Hospital, 1330 H Street, or at T. Arthur Smith's Ticket Agency.

MEMORIAL HALL TO BE SCENE OF CONVOCATION

Seventy-nine Degrees Are To Be Presented

Memorial Continental Hall will be the scene next Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock, of the Midwinter Convocation of George Washington University. At this time 79 degrees will be conferred, 45 in the Department of Arts and Sciences, and 32 in the Law School and two in the Medical School.

President Frank Aydelotte of Swarthmore College, will give the address. Members of the Board of Trustees, University Council, Faculties and of the graduating classes will assemble at 2.30 in the basement of the auditorium where the academic procession will form.

COMBINED LAW CLASSES TO HOLD ANNUAL DINNER

Committee Appointed to Arrange For Affair

The annual Law School Dinner which has been so successful in bringing the members of the Law School together in past years, will be held in the latter part of March, according to the decision reached at a meeting of the presidents, vice presidents and secretaries of the various law school classes held Friday, February 5.

This dinner has been one of the outstanding events of the Law School for the past fourteen years, and great plans are being made for the affair by the committee in charge. The evening will consist of a dinner, a few speeches and dancing. The price will be moderate. Last year 250 members of the various law classes attended the dinner.

FAVORS FOR 400

Only 400 favors for the Junior Prom have been ordered. The chairman of the Prom Committee states that if more than 400 tickets are sold those holding numbers higher than 400 will have to go without favors. Tickets are on sale at the Cashier's Office and the offices of the several departments.

UNIVERSITY VODVIL PLANS RELEASED

March 1st Set As Deadline For Submitting Synopsis Of Acts

FIRST TRYOUTS IN MARCH

Fraternities and Sororities Are Urged To Start Work On Their Individual Presentations

By HELEN SHAW

Plans for the staging of the University Vodvil on April 1 have been practically completed, the managing committee announces. The personnel of this committee includes Edward B. Moulton, President of the Dramatic Association; Ben Cain, of the Mimes; Marion Campbell, of the Players; Sterry Waterman, of the Troubadours; and Jean Gravatte, also of the Players. The success of the Vodvil last year insured interest and cooperation for this edition, and it is expected to excel in variety and general excellence the program of former years.

Fraternities and sororities are urged to start work, if they have not already done so, on the preparation of an act. Sterry Waterman, President of the Interfraternity Council, has general supervision over fraternity numbers and Jean Gravatte is in charge of sorority acts. Information relating to this type of thing may be secured from them.

Any individual, or group of individuals, other than Greek letter organizations, desiring to compete in the tryouts for the Vodvil is requested to do so. Ed Moulton will furnish the necessary information to such people.

The committee has set the date of March 1 as the deadline for submitting a short synopsis or written description of all acts of whatever nature. Such a synopsis may be handed to any one of the five members of the committee, or may be mailed to Edward Moulton, 1419 Girard Street N. W. The description should state the exact nature of the "stunt," the length of time required to present it, and the number of actors used.

Two Committees of Judges

First tryouts will take place the second Friday in March, time and place to be announced later. Second and final elimination tryouts will be held the following week. The stage will be ready, with all necessary equipment in place, for dress rehearsals which are planned for March 29, 30 and 31. More definite information will be furnished by the committee from time to time concerning this.

Under present plans, there will be two committees of judges; one composed of individuals with University connections of a nature to enable them to judge the acts on the basis of their selling value to the student body, the other will be composed of representatives of the outside dramatic world, who will judge the intrinsic value of the "stunt" from the standpoint of a paying audience. Marion Campbell, Wardrobe Mistress of the Dramatic Association, has in her charge numerous costumes which are at the disposal of participants in the Vodvil program. The

ENGINEERS TO HEAR EGYPTIAN MINISTER

President Lewis and Dean Miller Also On Program To Be Given Tonight

M. Samy Pasha, Minister of Egypt to the United States, will speak on "Egyptian Irrigation" at the meeting of the George Washington University Engineering Society to be held in the auditorium of Corcoran Hall tonight at 9.00 p. m.

Educated as an engineer in Egypt and England, M. Samy began his engineering career in the Egyptian Ministry of Public Works. He was gradually promoted to higher administrative and technical positions until he was appointed General Secretary of the Ministry of Public Works. In 1922 he was appointed Under Secretary of the Ministry of Communications, which post he occupied until February, 1925, at which time he was appointed Minister of Egypt to the United States.

Other speakers on the program include President William Mather Lewis and Dean Hugh Miller of the Engineering College of George Washington University. It is expected that many local engineers and technical experts from the diplomatic corps will be present at the meeting.

JUNIOR WEEK OFFERS BRILLIANT AND VARIED SCHEDULE OF EVENTS

Interfraternity Rotating Tea To Usher In Program Sunday Afternoon—Week To Close With Girls' Basketball Game Saturday, February 27

CONVOCATION AND RECEPTION TO COME MONDAY

"Evening of Music at Mount Vernon," Featuring Carmela Ponselle, To Be Held Monday Night—Debate Against Bates, Junior Play, and Junior Prom to Complete Program

Junior Week, which will be ushered in Sunday with the Interfraternity Rotating Tea, and brought to a close the following Saturday evening when the George Washington University girls' basketball team meets the University of Pittsburgh sextet in the gymnasium, promises to be the fullest and most varied festival occasion ever held at the University.

Included in the program is the Interfraternity Rotating Tea, the Midwinter Convocation, the Junior Reception, the "Evening of Music at Mount Vernon," the Junior debate between George Washington University and Bates College, the Junior Play "Belinda," the Junior Promenade in the New Willard Hotel, and the Pittsburgh basketball game.

N. E. A. ACCEPTS OFFER OF USE OF CLASS ROOMS

Twelve Thousand Members of Association to Gather in Washington For Five Days

The National Education Association has accepted the offer of George Washington University, and will hold a number of its group meetings in the buildings of the University during their meeting to be held in Washington next week. Dean Anna L. Rose, chairman of the local committee on arrangements, has completed a schedule of the meetings, and is handling the affair from the standpoint of the University.

The Association expects 12,000 members to come to Washington during the five days of the session, which starts Monday, February 22. Fourteen allied organizations comprise the Association, which is composed of college presidents, superintendents of schools, principals, teachers, college professors, deans of women, and other professional educators.

President Coolidge is to address the combined organization in the Washington Auditorium Monday evening at eight o'clock. His speech will be broadcast. A dinner will be held at the Wardman Park Hotel, headquarters of the organization, Tuesday evening. At this dinner President Meta Glass of Sweetbrier College, and President Marian Park of Bryn Mawr College will speak. About 400 are expected to attend the dinner.

College dinners, held in various parts of Washington will feature the program for Wednesday night. These dinners are an annual feature of the gathering and are looked forward to by the members as a means of reunion with old classmates.

The schedule of groups to use buildings of George Washington University is as follows:

February 22

Stockton Hall, Group C, Department of Superintendence—2 o'clock.
Corcoran Hall 1, National Society of College Teachers of Education—2.15 o'clock.

February 23

Corcoran Hall 21, 24, 25, Educational Research Association—Morning.
Building 5, Room 12, International Council for Education of Exceptional Children—Morning.
Corcoran Hall 1, National Society of College Teachers of Education—2.15 o'clock.

RAZZBERRY TO APPEAR AT JUNIOR RECEPTION

Famous Satirical Sheet of Pi Delta Epsilon Journalistic Fraternity Eagerly Awaited

The Razzberry, on red, red paper, will make its appearance at the Junior reception to be given President and Mrs. William Mather Lewis and the faculty in the Corcoran Hall auditorium Monday afternoon. The publication of this clever satirical sheet, published annually by the George Washington University chapter of Pi Delta Epsilon, the national honorary journalistic fraternity, is being eagerly awaited by the student body.

The work of the ghouls who gather the news and concoct the stories for the Razzberry has been secret, but enough evidence of their activities has been observed to arouse considerable comment as to just what and who the sheet is going to satirize.

After its introduction at the reception the paper will be sold on the Campus for the remainder of Junior Week.

Rolle Carter, chairman of the Junior Week Committee, has made all arrangement for the many events of the week, with the result that a brilliant program has been prepared. The varied offerings of the week's program have been woven into a whole, but each presents in itself the results of the effort of a separate committee, which has worked to make its event the best of the occasion.

The Interfraternity Rotating Tea, which will inaugurate the week, will be held Sunday afternoon, starting at 2.30 and ending at the Sigma Chi House at 7.00 p. m. Although none of the houses are to have any dancing, everyone has been assured a good time, with each group planning some novel feature for the migratory visitors.

Those attending the tea are promised a full luncheon en route, as each house has been allotted a certain time in which to entertain and a certain course of the menu. A schedule of the route will be found in this edition. Memorial Continental Hall will be the scene of the Midwinter Convocation, to be held Monday afternoon, February 22, at 3 o'clock. At this time 79 degrees will be conferred, 45 in the Department of Arts and Sciences, 32 in the Law School, and 2 in the Medical School.

Aydelotte Is Convocation Speaker

President Frank Aydelotte of Swarthmore College has been secured to give the convocation address. Members of the Board of Trustees, University Council, Faculties and the graduating classes will assemble in the basement of the auditorium at 2.30, where the academic procession will form.

The Junior Reception to be given President and Mrs. William Mather Lewis and the Faculty, will be held in the Corcoran Hall auditorium Monday afternoon at 5.30. They will

"BELINDA" IS CHOSEN AS PLAY FOR JUNIOR WEEK

Subtle English Comedy To Be Given In Gymnasium Wednesday, February 24

The Junior Play Committee has chosen "Belinda," an April folly in three acts, by A. A. Milne, to be presented as the Junior play. This comedy, to be produced by special arrangement with Samuel French, of New York, will be given in the University Gymnasium on Wednesday evening, February 24th.

"Belinda" is said to be a delightful English comedy abounding in clever lines. It is made particularly entertaining by the rare subtlety of the author, which the audience will have to listen sharply to catch.

Annabelle Lloyd will take the part of the charming "widow" Belinda and Marie Didden the part of Belinda's daughter Delia, while Vincent Stubbs, Loren Disney and Smith Brookhart "play for the widow." The cast is working hard to make the play one of the outstanding events of Junior Week. The play is under the direction of Miss Catherine Brown.

Student activity tickets will admit all members of the University. Their guests and other outsiders will be charged an admission of fifty cents at the door.

The cast and committee is endeavoring to make the play not only one of the best parts of Junior Week but one of the outstanding dramatic events of the year.

TROUBADOURS TRYOUT

Tryouts were held last night in Corcoran Hall for the Musical Comedy to be presented by the Troubadours in the spring. The tryouts will probably continue throughout the week before a cast is chosen.

A PLEA FOR INDIVIDUALITY

One of the most prevalent criticisms of the modern American university is that it turns out types rather than individuals. A serious indictment—if a true one. To be sure, every school graduates a certain number of stereotyped "Yes-men" each year. University people who have swallowed indiscriminately all information coming their way, leave college suffering from acute intellectual indigestion. This type of person has committed to memory, parrot-like, an heterogeneous and unassembled assortment of facts, which he has failed to assimilate. His opinions reflect the trend of thought to which each professor has exposed him. He is marked with the branding iron of the institution and labelled as the finished product.

But the university is not necessarily at fault. It is the mission of the college to present knowledge based on Truth to the student. What reaction takes place depends on the intellectual make-up of the individual. The "type" student is essentially shallow and lacking in individuality before he enters college. No educational system, however bad, can destroy vital and essential originality.

THE LAW SCHOOL DINNER

After considerable discussion by the officers of the law classes, the annual Law School dinner has been decided upon, and will be held the latter part of March. This dinner has been an annual affair for the past fourteen years, and has come to be one of the cherished traditions of the George Washington Law School.

It is the one chance of the year in which students of the various law classes can come together in a group and get acquainted with each other and with the faculty. The affair is an essential one to the law students and has the backing of Dean Van Vleck, the faculty and the Alumni Association.

This dinner should receive the united support of every man in the law school. Last season 250 attended the affair, and this number should be considerably increased this season. It is an enjoyable and moderately priced occasion, wherein the law student can forget his codes and cases, and have an evening of fun and fellowship with his fellow student. It also affords the law student an opportunity to meet his professors and dean on a man-to-man basis, and promotes a more sympathetic feeling between the faculty and the student body.

HOW ABOUT BASEBALL?

At this time of the year the daily papers are full of plans for the spring baseball season, and are announcing the schedules of the various colleges and universities in this vicinity. Not a line has been observed with reference to baseball at George Washington University, nor has any information come from the office of the Director of Athletics with regard to this sport. This University has not had a baseball team for several years, the only participation in the national pastime being by class teams and inter-mural competition. Last season a University team was discussed, but did not materialize. A great deal of interest was manifested last year in such a team, and is beginning to take form again this season.

Baseball is a sport that the Athletic Authorities of the University should not overlook. Every other institution in this part of the country places a team on the diamond, and it is a reflection on the athletic ability of the University to be without a team. There is plenty of excellent baseball material in school which would come out for the team if the proper incentive in the way of a schedule were worked out. If we are to have a baseball team some action should be taken at once, as the time for early practice is at hand.

The Washington Alumnae Chapter of Sigma Kappa entertained the active chapter and freshmen friends with dinner and a very original party at "The Anchorage," the evening of Feb. 5. 'Twas a most delightful rush party and a most delicious dinner!

Wednesday evening, February 10, the Sigma Kappas held a formal dance at Wardman Saddle Club. Music was furnished by the Carolinians and a novelty dance was on the program. Despite the heavy snow, the dance was a huge success.

Mrs. Wilson Compton, of the Pi Phi Alumnae Club, held a lovely tea at her home on Cathedral Avenue last Sunday.

Miss Helen Echin, of Kansas Beta Chapter of Pi Beta Phi, entertained at bridge Thursday, February 4, at her apartment at the Mayflower.

Friday, February 12, Mrs. Mae Dela Meter entertained a number of Pi Phis and their friends at a very delightful luncheon.

The Washington Alumnae Club of Pi Beta Phi Fraternity was hostess at luncheon at the Congressional Country Club, Saturday, February 13th. Over eighty members of the fraternity and their guests attended.

Kappa Delta entertained at a formal dance last Thursday at the Chapter House, 1721 Que Street. A novel program delighted the large number who attended.

"The Queen of Hearts," Elizabeth Cook; "the King of Hearts," Hugh S. Green. These two cards were found in a five-pound box of candy left at the Kappa Delta House last week. The presenting of "five pounds" is a tradition of Kappa Delta, and all engagements are announced in this way.

Kappa Delta served about 100 guests at the third "at home" of the season. The guests were delighted by the open fire on the hearth, for the chapter pledges surprised the actives by presenting them with a lovely pair of andirons at the tea.

Zeta Tau Alpha entertained friends at a banquet and bridge Tuesday evening, February 9, at the Hotel Hamilton. The private dining room was attractively decorated in turquoise blue and silver gray, the sorority colors.

A colorful studio-tea was given Sunday afternoon by members of Zeta Tau Alpha at 1115 Eye Street. Mrs. J. E. Swigart presided over the tea table where dainty refreshments were served. Lieutenant Commander Clephane, local artist, graciously received.

The Acacia Fraternity celebrated with a very successful Valentine party Saturday, February 13. The house was artistically decorated in hearts. After refreshments were served there was a heart matching contest in which the stags had great success.

Phi Alpha Chapter of the Chi Omega Fraternity entertained last Wednesday evening with a banquet and dance at the Congressional Country Club. Decorations were carried out in the attractive colors of the fraternity, and entertaining toasts were given by the different girls.

Alpha Delta Pi gave a luncheon and bridge at the White Peacock on Wednesday.

Alpha Delta Pi Sorority entertained with a formal supper dance at Wardman Park Hotel on Monday evening, February 15th.

The home of Miss Virginia May was transformed into weird Chinese effects on Tuesday night when she entertained a large number of guests at a Chinese supper.

Miss Helen Periam was hostess at dinner Sunday to numerous guests and friends of the Chi Omega Fraternity. After dinner the party drove to the Congressional Country Club to a musical tea.

A delightful Valentine bridge party was given last Saturday afternoon by Miss Winifred S. White, 2808 Twenty-eighth Street N. W. The guest list included members of the Chi Omega Fraternity and friends.

Taking the form of an old-fashioned fudge party, the Phi Sigma Sigma Sorority entertained many of the co-eds of the University in their rooms last Thursday, February 4.

The Phi Sigma Sigma Sorority alumni gave a surprise party to its undergraduate sororities and their friends at the home of Miss Kaminisky, one of the alumnae, Sunday, February 14. The party was followed by a dance.

Gamma Beta Pi entertained in their rooms Sunday morning at a novel Valentine breakfast.

Mary Maxam entertained at tea Sunday in honor of Jane Dortsch and Relta Vandervies.

Betty Bradford has been confined to her home with the grippe, but we're glad to see that she's back at school again.

EPISCOPAL SOCIETY TO HOLD SPECIAL MEETING

Final Plans Have Been Made For Tri-Diocesan Conference

Final plans were made by the Episcopal Club for their Tri-Diocesan Conference at a meeting in Corcoran Hall last Thursday night. This Conference is a gathering of delegates from colleges and universities in the District of Columbia and Maryland, to be held under the auspices of the local club the last three days of this month.

Several members met at the Rabbit Hole for supper before the meeting. Among the problems that were discussed were those of providing transportation around the city and a lunch for the delegates on Saturday, February 27, the second day of the Conference. Autos are to be provided by the members and their friends, while lunch will be served at the Octagon Inn, Eighteenth and F Streets.

There will be a special meeting of the club for the final discussion of plans on Thursday, February 18, in Corcoran Hall, Room 23, at 8 p. m. All members are requested to be present. New students are invited to be present. As before, members are invited to eat together at the University Cafeteria at 7 o'clock.

DR. JOHNSON ADDRESSES NEWMAN CLUB MEETING

Plans Are Completed For Card Party. February 23 Next Meeting Date

Rev. Dr. George Johnson, of the Catholic University, addressed the members of the Newman Club and others of the student body in Corcoran Hall on Tuesday evening, February 9. Dr. Johnson discussed the various methods of modern pedagogy advocated by the foremost educators of the country. He particularly stressed the marvelous progress made in the new Catholic High School System throughout the country.

A short business meeting followed the lecture at which plans were completed for the Card Party. Announcement was also made that the next lecture under the auspices of the club will be held in Corcoran Hall on Tuesday, February 23. The speaker will be the Rev. Joseph Christopher, of the Catholic University.

The talk will center in the Latin language and its peculiar position in the Church. All Catholic students of the University desiring to affiliate with the Newman Club should arrange to attend the lecture on the 23rd.

MEN'S GLEE CLUB GIVES TWO PUBLIC CONCERTS

Entertain at St. Elizabeth's and Kensington—To Sing Tonight at Mt. Vernon Church

The Men's Glee Club appeared at two public concerts during the past week. The first one was held at St. Elizabeth's, Thursday, February 11, for the entertainment of the inmates of that institution. At the concert Mr. Weihe gave several violin selections, the Charleston Quartet showed the latest steps and Mrs. Robert Harmon, pianist and wife of the director, accompanied herself at the piano. She also gave several dramatic readings. With these as fill-ins the club then gave their full concert, which was very much appreciated by the inmates and the visitors.

The quartet of the club also performed excellently Friday, February 12. The club entertained the community at Kensington, Md., with practically the same concert, followed by over 250 couples.

It has been announced that the club will appear tonight in public concert at the Mt. Vernon M. E. Church, South, at Ninth and Massachusetts Avenue N. W., at 8 o'clock. It is to be noted that the club has appeared at many charitable institutions, making the residents' lives a little less monotonous.

INTRODUCING THE FACULTY

ROBERT RUSS KERN

Originally a Kansan, Professor Kern early (two weeks) prevailed upon his parents to remove to Kansas City, Missouri, where he eventually received his elementary education.

He began his college study at the University of Missouri, receiving his A. B. from that institution in 1905. He continued his education during the next five years at Columbia, Cornell and Chicago, successively, by means of scholarships and teaching fellowships.

Professor Kern first became connected with George Washington University in 1910 in the Department of Sociology, Economics and Statistics of which he is now head. His classes began in a back bedroom of Building 8 at 2024 G Street but enlarged so rapidly that they had to move to the rear of what is now the Library, later to the rear of Building 5, Linsner Hall, and finally to the basement of the Concordia church. The total number now in the department numbers well over five hundred.

Professor Kern is also one of the founders of the Summer School. In addition to his classes in economics and sociology, he has been busily engaged in city planning, a work begun long before coming to the University. He has recently published his original endeavors in this line in a volume entitled "The Super City" which has received universal comment and commendation.

He also contributes to the American Journal of Sociology. He is a member of the American Sociological Society.

DEAN ROSE TO SPEAK

Dean Anna L. Rose will speak on "Vocations," Monday night, March 1, in Room 1, Corcoran Hall, at 8 o'clock. This is the third of a series of talks put on by the Pan-Hellenic Association, and is open to all girls of the University.

When it's a rainy night—and with three crafty bridge players your luck is running wild—have a Camel!

Camels represent the utmost in cigarette quality. The choicest of Turkish and Domestic tobaccos are blended into Camels by master blenders and the finest of French cigarette paper is made especially for them. Into this one brand is concentrated all of the knowledge, all of the skill of the world's largest organization of expert tobacco men.

WHEN the dark skies are pouring rain outside. And fickle fate deals you hands at bridge that you play with consummate skill—have a Camel!

For Camel is the silent partner that helps every deserving player win his game. Camels never hurt or tire the taste, never leave a trace of cigarettey after-taste. Regardless of the gold you spend, you'll never get choicer tobaccos than those rolled into Camels.

So this evening as you ply your merriment skill, evoke then the mellowest fragrance that ever came from a cigarette.

Have a Camel!

Our highest wish, if you do not yet know Camel quality, is that you try them. We invite you to compare Camels with any cigarette made at any price.

WESTHAMPTON SIX LOSES TO G. W. TEAM

Hatchette Girls Win Thrilling
Game From Richmond Sextet, 26 to 24

VISITORS LEAD AT FIRST

Brilliant Comeback by Buff and Blue
Team in Final Period Gains
Victory

By BETTY ARMENTROUT

In a battle royal in which quick, accurate passing was the great virtue, the George Washington girls' basketball team defeated the Westhampton six from Richmond, Virginia, last Saturday afternoon in the G. W. Gym amid shouts of cheering from the side-lines by a score of 26-24. This game, probably the most unique of its kind, was an exhibition of what real basketball and a brilliant rally in the last few minutes of a game can accomplish. It was a fast and furious game, one in which the G. W. girls showed their ability to stage a real comeback and send their opponents to the depths of defeat.

The game opened with much spirit, the Buff and Blue caging 2 points in the first minute of play and the Richmond six ringing in point after point. At the end of the quarter the score stood 10-3 in favor of the visitors.

The second quarter was a repetition of the first, both sides making a hard fight, but at the sounding of the whistle marking the end of the half, the Virginia girls led by a count of 13-8.

Amid renewed fighting spirit the second half opened and the Westhampton girls accumulated more points, but the George Washington six came back and piled up honors. Fast, steady play reigned supreme throughout, but it was at this time that the home girls went on their tip-toes and staged a contest worthy of any collegiate basketball team.

At the end of the third quarter the southerners were still leading by 4 points. The last period of play was the crucial one, for in this quarter the home team steamed up and staged a brilliant come-back, playing the visitors with a frenzied quantity of speed in the final minutes of play. The Westhampton team went down to defeat by a score of 24 to 26, with the side-lines staging enthusiastic cheering.

Stellar players were not few in number, for it took every member of both teams to put on such a fight. Alys Ewers caged 13 points in the closing half. Young shot beautifully for the visitors, as did Lazenby and Richardson for the losers. Cate, ArmentROUT and Jackson, center fields for the Buff and Blue, showed up well. The guards of the George Washington sextet were stellar performers.

HAROLD PHILLIPS TALKS AT DRAMATIC MEETING

Mimes Present Farce Entitled "Bottled in Bond"

Harold Phillips, dramatic critic of the Washington Times, was the guest at the meeting of the Dramatic Association held Wednesday night, February 10, in the rehearsal room of Stockton Hall. The talk of Mr. Phillips was based on a modern summary of the community drama and of its relation to the regular theatres. As for the college plays, said Mr. Phillips, George Washington for one should offer prizes to any one who could write the best play, as is done at present at Yale. Toward the close of his talk Mr. Phillips prophesied that within another twenty years the stage will disappear entirely and that the screen will take its place. Following the talk, the Mimes presented a play entitled "Bottled in Bond," which was a success. The cast was Paul Horney, Betty Coryl, Marden P. Green and Alpha Booth.

GIRLS' GLEE CLUB ON PROGRAM OF RIALTO

To Appear At Local Movie Theatre
Next Week—Sing On Church
Program

The Girls' Glee Club of George Washington University, under the leadership of Miss Estelle Wentworth, has been selected to feature the program at the Rialto Theatre the week of February 21st, by Mischa Guterson, musical director. Costumes of the Colonial Period, which are to be worn by the girls, will furnish atmosphere for the occasion.

Another success was added to the already brilliant record of the club at the concert given last Friday night at the Foundry Methodist Church. One could not have wished a more varied or delightful program. The vocal soloists of the evening were Eleanor Judd and Ruth Barnhart, sopranos, and Edith Finney, mezzo-soprano. Martha Stevens, famous radio star, entertained with piano solos.

The Ever-Ready Group also presented several attractive numbers, and the Glee Club as a whole showed the results of excellent training.

INTERFRATERNITY TEA SCHEDULE IS ARRANGED

Procession Order to Be Reversed
From Last Year

The schedule of the Interfraternity Rotating Tea has been completed and is announced by the Interfraternity Council. The annual Tea will be held Sunday afternoon, February 21, from 2.30 to 7.00 o'clock.

The order of the procession is the reverse of that of last year, and will start at the Sigma Alpha Epsilon house, 3320 16th Street, N. W., and work down town. The final place on the route will be the Sigma Chi house, at 1312 N Street, N. W.

Fruit cocktail will be served at the first two stops, sandwiches at the second two, followed by salad at the third pair. Fruit is the menu for the seventh and eighth stop, while punch will be served at the last three houses.

The schedule follows:
Sigma Alpha Epsilon, 3320 16th Street, N. W., 2.30-3.15, fruit cocktail.

Phi Sigma Kappa, 1813 Columbia Road, 3.00-3.30, fruit cocktail.

Sigma Phi Epsilon, 1810 Conn. Ave. N. W., 3.30-4.00, sandwiches.

Theta Delta Chi, 1724 Conn. Ave. N. W., 4.00-4.30, sandwiches.

Kappa Sigma, 1803 19th St. N. W., 4.30-5.00, salad.

Delta Tau Delta, 1743 18th St. N. W., 4.45-5.15, salad.

Theta Upsilon Omega, 1765 Q St. N. W., 5.15-5.45, fruit.

Kappa Alpha, 1626 S St. N. W., 5.30-6.00, fruit.

PAN-HEL ASSOCIATION ADOPTS RESOLUTION

Sorority Express Confidence in Administration of University

The Pan-Hellenic Association of the University has drawn up the following resolution, which was signed by all the sororities represented in it: Whereas certain individuals have seen fit recently to publish derogatory statements concerning the administration, the organizations and the ideals of this University: Be it resolved:

1. That the Women's Fraternities, through the local Pan-Hellenic Association of George Washington University, take this opportunity to express their unqualified support and deep confidence in the administration of the University.

2. Further, that we do heartily disavow any allegations which seek to defame the University, its officials, its organizations, and the ideals for which it stands.

3. And further, that a copy of this resolution be sent to the President of the University, and if he deem it wise, be published in the University Hatchet.

IBERIAN PENINSULA TO BE SUBJECT OF TALKS

Mrs. Charles Wood To Speak In Chapel Next Week

Mrs. Charles Wood will speak on Spain at the Wednesday and Friday Chapeis the week of February 22nd. Mrs. Wood made an extensive tour of the Iberian Peninsula last summer, and she has caught the spirit of Spain, which she will endeavor to present to the students of George Washington.

"Some Royal Cities of Spain" will be the subject of Mrs. Wood's first talk. In this talk the cities which at any time have been the seat of the Spanish Government will be described. The second subject is "Southern Spain and the Moors." A large part of this talk will be devoted to the Alhambra.

One of the chief charms of these talks will be the colored slides. Mrs. Wood carried her camera with her, and wherever it was possible took pictures, but because sunlight even in Spain is not always perfect she had to buy some pictures. These Mrs. Wood has made over for stereopticon slides.

SPLINTERS FROM SPORTDOM

McGrew Succeeded by Domigan.

Best Basketball in Second Half.

Concerning a Certain Newspaper.

Athletic Stars Start Social Season.

By DOMY DOMIGAN

Dan McGrew, not the one called "dangerous" by the poet, Service but our own editor of Splinters, has asked to be relieved of his pet column. Dan hates to give up his weekly harangue, and we certainly hate to lose him, but he has begged off. The basketball managers have taken a great deal of Dan's time, and he feels that he has to make up his scholastic standing after two months of laxity. We hope to have Dan with us again in the future, and will welcome him back at any time, even if we have to start a second column to accommodate him.

Horace Domigan, who dubs himself "Domy," has been placed in charge of this bureau of sporting comment. Domigan is one of G. W. U.'s famous cross-country runners, and is captain-elect of new season team of harriers. We are sure he will dish up hot stuff.—Ed.

There was only one thing wrong with the past week; we didn't beat our old rival, Catholic U. But had we had a perfect week, perhaps the Brooklanders would have felt a little less satisfied, and from our standpoint, there are many signs of encouragement to be drawn from the result. In the three games played, the West Virginia game was the only one where the local boys seemed to get started until the second half. Such can not be held as a reflection on either coach or players, but serves to show that the boys have too many outside duties and responsibilities to keep that ever attentive attitude necessary for consistent proficiency in their game.

West Virginia must have been practicing girls' rules, as they seemed unable to utilize any advantage that might be gained by the use of rough tactics—or perhaps it was the unfamiliar level country. At least the boys from the hills were not able to repeat the victory gained on the little floor of the "Ark" that serves as their home gym.

The second encounter with Catholic University was largely a repetition of the first. After trailing the first half, the boys opened an attack that swept their rivals off their feet and cut down the commanding lead of the initial period. The Duke game was an uncertainty until the second period was well under way, then came a repetition of that second half rush to settle things in favor of the Hatchetmen. In every game the team has shown itself more than equal in strength to its opponents when once under way. Were we assured that this verifiability of attack would be developed during the first half, it would be a matter of interest to notice the scores, were the season repeated.

It was a matter of interest to all of us that we beat Duke University Friday night; it was a matter of interest to all alumni and friends of the University; it was a matter of interest as an intercollegiate athletic contest; and it was news. Yet one of the leading local newspapers published not a line to indicate that such a game was played. Most of us realize the small amount of publicity afforded our teams in comparison with other local schools—a fact for which the University might be partly to blame. But for a newspaper which prides itself on publishing the inside on all sports, the failure to give notice to an intercollegiate contest seven blocks from its pressroom, when notified that the game was to take place, is an oversight that borders on insult.

LINCOLN EXERCISES ARE HELD IN CHAPEL

Following the reading of the Gettysburg address by President Lewis, Mr. John B. Lerner, President of the Board of Trustees, addressed the noon chapel of February 12 on his personal recollections of President Lincoln. Mr. Lerner pointed out as an interesting fact that Lincoln's substitute in battle, who had been chosen by Mr. Lerner's father, stayed throughout the war in service without a scratch.

Stressing the loyalty of Lincoln, the speaker held him up as an example of a man who advanced in the face of constant failures to the highest place in history. In conclusion Mr. Lerner emphasized the importance of loyalty to our Alma Mater, as he himself credits his success to the start given him by George Washington University.

MENORAHS TO MEET

The Menorah Society will hold an important meeting tonight at 8 p. m., in Corcoran Hall, Room 1. Professor Richardson will speak before the society on the "Style and Works of Spinoza." The fact that Spinoza is one of the greatest Jewish writers will make the talk by Professor Richardson all the more interesting.

Following the talk, the meeting will be devoted to the business of the organization. All members of the society are urged to attend, as plans for the annual dance are being formulated.

G. W. U. TO GO ON AIR TWO NIGHTS NEXT WEEK

Musical Numbers to Feature Program
Broadcast By Stations WCAP
and WRC

Two radio programs will be featured by the University during the week of February 22nd. The first will be broadcast over WCAP the night of the 22nd at 7.15, and will include orchestral music, a play, selections by the University Four Quartet, as well as a short talk by President Lewis. It is also planned to introduce the new University song by Morris Larson and Marlon Campbell to the public. This will be sung by a quartet of women's voices. Several other features had to be omitted as President Coolidge will speak about 8 o'clock.

On the night of the 27th, Station WRC will broadcast a debate between two boys of the University on the Child Labor Amendment. This will be followed by music by the String Quartet, under the direction of Mr. Gropp, and selections by the Men's Glee Club. Professor Moss will also speak on one of his recent experiments.

INTERFRAT ROLLERS TO BOWL SATURDAY

League 1 Matches To Be Played Saturday Night at Convention Hall

With but three more days remaining until the opening of the interfraternity bowling contest, the pin-spillers of each organization are practicing hard and late. There is no doubt that blood will be spilled on one side or the other before the dust of battle subsides.

Saturday the teams in League 1 will engage in mortal combat. Sunday is set aside to remove all corpses from the scene, but the following Saturday the carnivorous members of League 2 will rend each other asunder. At a later date the victorious gladiators in each league will struggle to the death. Quarter will be neither asked for nor granted in this cataclysmic battle for the bowling trophy.

The schedule for the event was published in last week's issue of the Hatchet.

LEMON BACK ON JOB AFTER BRIEF ILLNESS

Junior Basketball Coach Recovers
From Siege of Grippe

Coach Jimmy Lemon is back on the job after a siege of the grippe, which kept him confined to his home for several days. Crum's valuable assistant was not able to be at the practice sessions during the preparation for last week's game, and although Coach Crum worked overtime to do the work of two men, the team missed the moral support of the junior mentor.

Lemon was on hand Friday night, however, to enjoy the walloping the Buff and Blue administered to Duke University in the final period of the game, after fighting the Carolinians a nip-and-tuck battle during the earlier portion of the contest.

WOMEN'S RIFLE TEAM BEATS DREXEL SQUAD

The girls rifle team pulled in a score of 497 against Drexel's 489 in the shoulder-to-shoulder match shot last Saturday at Philadelphia. Two possibilities brought in by Betsy Fries and Mae Huntzinger were scored as well as the targets of Sophia Waldman, Edna Kilpatrick, and Ermyndrude Valden who all dropped one point, counting 99 each.

Helen Taylor and Katherine Shoemaker each scored a 99, but they were outranked for scoring places. The team was entertained at dinner by the Drexel girls who also took the Buff and Blue markswomen to the theater while they were waiting for their train.

VODVIL PLANS RELEASED

arrangement of acts on the program will be taken care of by her, also.

The Mimes Varsity production is to be given April 15. Their program includes three short plays, Shipley's "The Echo"; "Boccaccio's Untold Tales," by Harry Kent; and "The Spider," written by Charlie Hayes, G. W. student.

The players follow with George Bernard Shaw's "You Never Can Tell," on April 22. Aristophanes' "The Frogs" will be presented by the Dionysians April 29.

May 6 is the date of the Troubadours' offering, a student-written musical show dealing with student life, which has not as yet been christened.

Publicity for the Dramatic Festival will emanate from the Dramatic Association. There will be an outside publicity agent for the professional press, while the Hatchet will spread the news on the Campus. Each of the dramatic organizations will have an official publicity agent from whom either the Hatchet or the local papers may get any necessary information.

LE CERCLE GALIA

After a short business meeting of Le Cercle Galia held last Friday evening, Mr. Beneteau, instructor in French at George Washington, gave a most interesting discussion of Honore d'Urfé and of L'Astree, the first French novel written by him, in 1610. L'Astree is a pastoral novel, and Mr. Beneteau spoke of various influences on the personal life of the author, which are reflected in this book, which had a tremendous success and was popular even as late as the end of the eighteenth century.

GIRLS' COURT TEAM FACES TWO GAMES

To Play Wilson Normal School and Gallaudet Sextets
Away From Home

WILSON TILT TO BE TIGHT

Hard Practices Are Held During Week In Preparation For These Tilts

By PATTY ANN JAMISON

The heaviest part of the girls' court schedule will take place this week when the Buff and Blue cagewomen meet two teams of the home floor. The Wilson Normal game, postponed last week, is scheduled for tonight at 8 o'clock in the Hilltoppers' Gym at Eleventh and Harvard Streets N. W. On Friday the G. W. sextet will clash with the Kendall Greens on the Gallaudet floor at Seventh Street and Florida Avenue N. E.

This is the second meeting with both teams, the Hatchettes having come out victors in both previous contests. Tonight's game will be the toughest of the two, for the Normal girls have a speedy team that fights to the finish. They started the season against the Buff and Blue six and the match was one of the closest seen on the H Street basket floor this season. In the opener the first of January, the toss was nip and tuck, and was not decided until the final whistle.

The Gallaudet clash is looked to as an easier one for the locals. The Kendall Greens are not showing crack form this season and the Hatchet six downed them with a good score on the G. W. side of the ledger in the second game this year. The Gallaudet girls have a better chance on their own floor, however, so the Buff and Blue team is expecting a fight.

Hold Extra Practices

Extra practices have been held this week to polish up the rough edges after the first defeat of the season. The Buff and Blue gave way under the attack of the Indians of William and Mary at Williamsburg last week in their first trip off the home lines. Miss Hopkins finds little fault with the team for the loss, the local six simply being outplayed by the Orange and Green, who showed fine defense and excellent forward work. The invaders were greatly handicapped by the low baskets on the foreign court, and with full student backing for the opposition the odds were well against them.

Practice this week has been confined almost entirely to the working up of a new set of passes, some of which were quite effective in the game last Saturday with Westhampton. According to the manager, the team is still showing a pretty offensive game and their speed and accuracy in tosses is improving materially, due to a great extent to steady work on the practice floor.

Two more games will finish the girl tossers' program for the season. February 27th is the date of the invasion by the University of Pittsburgh. The final tilt will be played with Swarthmore on their floor the 5th of March.

G. W. RIFLERS SHOOT SEASON'S BEST SCORE

Make 1933 Shooting Against Georgetown; Hilltoppers' Score Not In

The Buff and Blue marksmen shot a score of 1,933, the highest team score of the season, in the first week of shooting in the Middle States League of the Intercollegiate Rifle Association. The competitor against whom the G. W. riflemen were shooting this week was Georgetown, the time honored rival of the George Washington marksmen. The Georgetown score was not available for this week's Hatchet, but the excellent score chalked up to the credit of the Hatchettes makes a win very likely.

The targets shot for the match with the University of Washington were shot and sent to that university week before last, but no word has been received here as to the score made by the western team.

PLAYERS START ON ACTS FOR ANNUAL VODVIL

To Hold Closed Business Meeting
March 8

The Players' business meeting was held Thursday evening in Lisner Hall. It was decided that the next meeting, March 8, should be a closed one, at which members were to try out acts for the Players' contribution to the Annual Vodvil. Members were also reminded of the conference with Miss Brown the third Wednesday in February. Each one of the dramatic clubs is constructing the sets in miniature for the Varsity production of the group in order to try out lighting effects. There will be a called meeting of the Players as soon as the Dramatic Festival tickets are available.

Helen Shaw, Virginia Mitchell and Max Tandler were elected to membership.

After the business meeting, members repaired to the rehearsal room in the basement of Stockton Hall for the program. Two of the plays scheduled for presentation were postponed due to illness in the respective casts. "Suppressed Desires," by Susan Glaspell, was given under the direction of Alice Williams. The play was a two-scene comedy satire on Psychoanalysis. In the cast were Annabelle Lloyd, Florence Smith and Morris Larson.

HATCHET HARRIER COPS ALOYSIUS CLUB MEDAL

Hurd Willett Loses Shoes and Runs
Four Miles Barefoot to Win Event

Running barefooted for the last four miles, Hurd Willett, star G. W. cross-country runner, easily won the final five-mile run staged by the Aloysius Club at the Plaza track last Sunday. Willett's victory earned him the gold medal offered by the Aloysius Club for the most points scored in the series of runs. His time for the five-mile grind was 29 minutes and 30 seconds.

Walton Shipley, the only other Hatchette to run, arrived at the track after the original field had completed the first mile. He finished fourth with a time of 30 minutes. Shipley was the only man who had a chance to tie with Willett for high points.

Willett led the race from the starting gun until he crossed the tape, and was never pressed in spite of the fact that he lost his shoes at the end of the first mile, and was forced to wade through the slush and cinders of the track barefoot for the remainder of the distance. Schaub, of the Aloysius Club copped second honors, while Heinrich of Gallaudet finished third.

The series of runs was staged by the Aloysius Club to condition the runners and to stimulate interest in the modified ten-mile marathon to be held February 22.

The final standing by points for the four practice runs was as follows: Willett, 16; Shipley, 13; Schaub, 5 and Domigan 1.

FIFTY-TWO LAW SCHOOL STUDENTS PASS D. C. BAR

Successful George Washington University Applicants To Be Presented to Court in March

Fifty-two George Washington University applicants were among the 165 successful students in passing the bar examination held in December. Thus about one-third of those who passed were from the G. W. Law School.

Only 45 per cent of the 350 applicants were successful in passing the examination. It has been said that about 70 per cent of the men from George Washington University who presented themselves were passed. The new barriars will be presented to the D. C. Court in March.

Students who passed the examination are Francis W. Brown, Robert M. Bruce, George W. Billings, Wade M. Becker, John Ralph Barrow, Mary G. Connor, Mitchell B. Carroll, David W. Cannon, Facius W. Davis, Ruby R. Fleming, Rees A. Gillespie, Rose G. Guinn, Willard L. Hart, Harry K. Herschman, Charlotte A. Hankin, Herbert Cowling Kimball, Irene C. Kushner, Clarence L. Lattin, William F. BASKETBALL TEAM IS VICTOR IN TWO GAMES score was tied at seven different times during the game, and Duke held the advantage as often in the early stages of the game as did the Hatchetmen. Toward the end of the game the Duke defense weakened under the onslaught of the heavy Buff and Blue crew and Crum's machine ran the score up to 42 to 32.

Brown of the Axemen, was the first man to score, dropping in a two-pointer after nearly every man on both teams had had a try or two at the basket and rimmed the hoop or bounced the ball off the backstop. Bullock retaliated for Duke a moment later, tying the score. Kendall contributed G. W.'s second field goal, but it was offset by two successful tosses from the foul line by Hartness.

The battle surged from one end of the court to the other, neither team being able to hold an advantage for more than a couple of minutes. Kendall and Wheeler led the march to the basket for G. W., while Butler and Bullock did the scoring for the Durham team.

Wallace Starts Rally.

A few minutes before the end of the half with Duke leading 14-10, Wallace started a rally with a pot-shot from midfield, his first basket of the evening. Heartened by his captain's example, Wheeler began peppering at the hoop and dropped in three goals. Another double counter by Hartness just before the whistle made the score at the half 18 to 16 in favor of George Washington.

The second half began with the same conditions that had prevailed during the first period, first G. W. forged ahead, and then gave way to Duke, but never with a difference of more than two points in the score.

Then Captain Wallace sank one of his impossible shots from way down the field, and after that he continued to shoot them through whenever he could get within sight of the hoop. With Wheeler still on the shooting spree he had started during the first period, George Washington began to pile up a substantial lead, and wound up with Duke's scalp and a 42 to 32 score to mark down in the little black book.

Wheeler and Wallace each contributed seven field goals, Kendall four, Allshouse two and Brown one. Banton, Davis and Sapp, who were used in the back court, all played excellent defensive basketball.

Butler, Bullock and Hartness did all the scoring for the tobacco magnate's university, Butler getting six goals from scrimmage and making good on two out of five tries from the foul line. It is interesting to note that the Duke players did not commit a single foul.

Good Showing Against C. U.

The game with C. U. Thursday, a 39 to 28 showing for the Brooklanders, was in many ways a replica of the encounter of the week before. Again the Maroon and Black quintet won the game by piling up a lead in the first half which the Crummen were unable to overtake in the second. The Buff and Blue quint put up a stiffer brand of opposition in the return game than in the first, in spite of the fact that they were playing on a foreign court.

Coach Rice left his Varsity Sophomore quintet in the game for practically the entire forty minutes, not substituting right and left as he did in the first game, but despite this fact the Hatchettes outplayed and outshot the C. U. regulars during the second half to the tune of 21 to 14.

Captain Wallace was held to a single two-pointer in the first half, but in the final period he made four scrimmage baskets and one free goal. Wheeler registered four times for two points a time, all in the second half. Banton scored a field goal and a free throw and Allshouse, Brown and Kendall made one field goal each.

Long, C. U. forward, ran wild when it came to shooting baskets. He made seven field goals and four charity tosses for a total of eighteen points. Harvey, Foley and Kenney scored all the rest of the points credited to C. U. with the exception of a free throw by O'Donnell.

Hatchet Reviews of Current Shows

By JACK MILLIGAN

HISTRIONIC HINTS

"The Creaking Chair," a new farcical comedy by Allene Tupper Wilkes, opened at the National Monday night, too late for review. We have been requested to mention "The Lost Battalion" at the President. The picture isn't worth mentioning.

POLIS

It is seldom that a production is enticing enough to keep professional critics in a playhouse until the final curtain. "The Student Prince" accomplished this feat at Poll's last Sunday night. Mr. Hall of the "News," Mr. Hollander of the "Herald," Mr. Phillips of the "Times," Mr. Meakin of "Variety," and the dollar-a-word reviewer for the "Hatchet" were all detected in their seats at the end of the show. Evidently these rascals were enjoying themselves.

You must not miss "The Student Prince." It is a most colorful, lovely, amusing, and distinctly musical version of "Old Heidelberg," the noted play. The plot is familiar, but holds the interest amazingly, and could not be improved upon for a musical play of this sort. And the score needs no introduction.

The story deals with a prince who studies life and beer at Heidelberg, but on becoming king of his country, falls in line with his duty, and marries a neighboring princess. All this takes place with an accompaniment of singing, carousing, and drinking that lead one to pull the obvious pun that a more proper title would be "The Stewed Prince."

A word must be said for the beautiful settings and atmosphere that have been provided. The third act of the operetta, a court scene, knocks the eye out.

While the original Broadway cast is not with us, the present troupe compares favorably. But I don't need to write any more about it, for if you are young and ingenious, as I am, this week will find you seated in Poll's. Which is as it should be.

RIALTO

This week's Rialto offering, "The Palace of Pleasure," isn't the kind of movie you hope it is. The story concerns a Portuguese opera singer who allows herself to be abducted by one of her admirers, who drags her to his lair. Why the picture is called "The Palace of Pleasure" is beyond me. The only instance of any character enjoying itself was a certain actor's delight in habitually eating bananas.

However, the film has its educational aspects. For instance, the story takes place in 1800. At this time our ancestors were still riding behind the old gray mare; but not the Portuguese. Peco-lhe perdao, senhores, but I must say that these 17th Century Dagos were damned clever. They rode in Rolls-Royces! Sim, senhor, the picture actually shows several cars, and one of them was practically identical with my own Rolls. Pao de Assucar! Lisbon! The voluptuous Betty Compson and Edmund Lowe are uma boa retribuicao for the mediocre plot. Their acting is good.

Mischa Guterson's noise, a news reel, and a Van Bibber comedy, with a stage presentation of the last act of "Carmen" complete the bill.

METROPOLITAN

The Met can rightfully advertise its feature picture, "Bluebeard's Seven Wives," as a comedy of the first water. Now go on with the story.

The plot concerns the adventures of a young bank clerk who stutters, but becomes a Spanish "sheik" in the movies. It seems still the thing to use the word "sheik," despite the valiant efforts of the S. P. O. F. (Society for the Prohibition of Obsolete Phrases.)

The picture is replete with cinema figures, a director and his yes-men, an astute Hebrew and his "Ol' govat," and an enterprising press agent. You should see the latter pose for newspaper men in the film. It's really superb.

Ben Lyon finds something he can do at last; I think you'll enjoy him. Lois Wilson is the stimulus for saving for a house in the suburbs, and Blanche Sweet lends her good name for the bill-boards, but otherwise doesn't count.

In addition there is a comedy, the Pathe News, and Dan Breckin's Orchestra.

COLUMBIA

Fannie Hurst's "Mannequin" is this week's feature at the Columbia. Not being a reader of "Liberty," I do not know the novel. Therefore the readers of this sophisticated column are spared the boredom of the usual unfaltering comparison between the written opus and the "silent drammer."

The story deals with a girl stolen from her estranged parents by a love-starved but weak-minded nursemaid. Brought up in the tenements of New York, through the help of an obliging settlement house she secures a place as mannequin in the establishment of a fashionable modiste. Then thrills! She meets a dashing young newspaper reporter (blushes from the dramatic editor), and the fun begins. If you want to know what happens, join the stampede at the Columbia. You will find an interesting picture, but one not to be compared with "Humoresque."

The cast includes Alice Joyce, Dolores Costello, ZaSu Pitts, Warner Baxter, and Walter Pidgeon.

"Screen Snapshots" haunts us with a lovely ghost—shots of the late Barbara La Marr on her first visit to the studio after her long illness. International News, a comedy entitled "Lickety Split," and Leon Brusilof's music complete the bill.

PALACE

If you would like to see the "Charleston" performed like a whirlwind, if you want an entertaining hour in a picture palace, if you are interested in the stage, and if you are not particularly critical of non-intellectual movies, wander down to the Palace this week and see "The Song and Dance Man."

It is a medley of stage sentiment, amusing adventures, and George M. Cohan, from whose play the film was taken. The principal figure of the film is an unsuccessful young song and dance man, who gets out of trouble when he is down and out, only to become a business magnate. But, with the blood of the theatre in his veins, he returns to the boards once more. In the meantime, however, he has lost his girl friend, another dancer, who marries a rising young painter.

Bessie Love is the girl friend, who is called upon to show her stuff to a producer, and responds with a "Charleston" that filled this critic's sophisticated eyes with tears. Who can deny the primitive potency of a pretty girl's legs, especially when they are cavorting like a cyclone? Tom Moore essays the title role creditably, and Norman Trevor, Harrison Ford, and Bobby Watson support.

There are on draught also a comedy, the Pathe News, a scenic, and Tom Gannon's music.

BELASCO

"Kosher Kitty Kelly," a musical comedy of small proportions and smaller reason for existence is the fare at the Belasco this week.

There is a strong odor of boiled-over-cabbage about this business. There are a hundred and one estimates of the Irish-Jewish state of affairs to pick over, yet this show adds nothing of interest to one's understanding of the situation. At any rate, we object to "Kosher Kitty Kelly" on the grounds of stupidity and deception. In the first place its material is nothing more than burlesque gaggery and in the second place it is dignified by the name musical comedy.

The songs, which are fair to middling, are sad indeed in the handling given them by the orchestra. A few more instruments would help a great deal. The singing is none too good. The acting of Dorothy Walters and Jennie Moscovitz as the Irish and Jewish mothers in the case was a pleasant feature of the evening, while the work of Robert Leonard as a storekeeper served largely to hold interest in the show. But all in all, "Kosher Kitty Kelly" is pretty shoddy stuff.

GENTLE GOSSIP

The funniest sight in Washington last week wasn't the unusual spectacle of Don Marquis, noted humorist, sitting squarely in the middle of Peacock Alley swapping lies with a local newspaper reporter. No it was the vision of two corpulent and intellectual dowagers discussing the intricate problem of baking a cake, with eggs so high priced, my dear, at a performance of "Martha," by the Chicago Civic Opera Company.

This week's runner-up in the funny sight competition was the uplifting view of 397 of the 400 guests at the Lincoln dinner given in the City Club recently downing their consommé in a manner not approved by the jolly old Book of Etiquette. The three people who were well-bred enough to do this thing correctly were a high official of this university, a man without a spoon, and a slightly woozy gentleman who thought his soup was a cup of coffee.

George Washington was well represented among the listeners to the choice noises presented here last week by the Chicago singers. Among the university folk attending we spotted two very important/high officials, many members of the faculty, and two students. The latter twain were the writer, who was forced to be present to keep up appearances, and a certain well-known fraternity man who had a hazy idea that he was going to a dance.

The dramatic department takes great pleasure in announcing that Don Marquis has decided to branch out from his successful efforts at humorous scribbling, columning and playwriting and become a play producer. He is planning to put on his own work, "The Dark Hours," which he wrote and published a year ago. This is absolutely the first public notice of the news, which is important inasmuch as the genial Don's play is a great piece of work, and should, we hope, be successful in the theatre. You who read the drama will remember that it features the twelve apostles and their troubles on the night before the crucifixion.

Although it did not win mention in the first paragraph of the "Gentle Gossip" department, a certain funny sight detected last week deserves notice. It was the vision of a congratulatory card from a prominent Georgetown University student which lay on a table in Mary Garden's dressing room after Saturday afternoon's presentation of "Carmen"! Miss Garden smilingly caressed it? She did not.

JUNIOR WEEK OFFERS BRILLIANT SCHEDULE

be received by the presidents of the various Junior Classes and by Elizabeth Armentrout, chairman of the Junior Reception Committee. Dancing will follow the reception, and continue until 7.30 p. m. The Sangamo Orchestra has been obtained to furnish music for the occasion.

Carmela Ponselle, star of the Metropolitan Opera Company, will feature the program of the "Evening of Music at Mount Vernon," to be held in the gymnasium the evening of February 22, under the direction of the Board of Lady Managers of the George Washington University Hospital. The event is in commemoration of the 194th birthday of George Washington. Students of the Architectural Department of the University are designing and constructing the set for the occasion, which will be a replica of the music room of Mount Vernon. Several other features will be presented on the program.

Bates College Sends Debaters.

The men's debate team will meet the forensic stars of Bates College in a debate to be held in Stockton Hall, Tuesday night, February 23. This has been substituted for the William and Mary fray as the official Junior Debate. The latter will be held Saturday night as scheduled, but as it conflicts with the basketball game, it will not be the official debate of the Junior program.

"Belinda," an April folly in three acts, by A. A. Milne, has been selected as the Junior Play, and will be presented in the gymnasium Wednesday night, February 24th. The cast is composed entirely of Juniors and is being directed by Miss Catherine Brown. Student activity tickets will be honored for admission, but outsiders will be charged fifty cents at the door.

Thursday has been set aside as a day of rest from the activities of the week. The climax comes Friday night in the New Willard Hotel with the Junior Promenade. The Prom Committee, of which Burch Tennyson is chairman, has completed arrangements for the affair. W. Spencer Tupman, presenting John Slaughter and his Mayflower Vanity Band, will furnish music for the evening. Tickets are on sale, and may be obtained from any member of the Prom Committee, or at the office of any of the departments of the University.

The final event of the week will be the basketball game between the girls' teams of George Washington University and the University of Pittsburgh. The G. W. sextet has had an excellent season and is out to defeat the Smoky City combination.

CENTRALITES PROMISED GOOD TIME AT MEETING

The Central Club has planned the biggest meeting of the year tonight to open the new semester. Stunts galore are in store for the members who attend. The program to be given after the business meeting is reputed to be worthy of Keith's circuit. Dancing, singing, and melodrama are among the acts to be presented, while the feature of the evening is to be a real Charleston exhibition.

The meeting will begin promptly at 8 o'clock in Corcoran Hall, Room 29. The club extends a hearty invitation to all Freshmen from Central to attend this meeting.
